Transition for Session 3 (June 18th) Hey everyone, we would like to first off, apologize for the delay of starting up Session 3 on time. We have been extremely busy with moving into our new office space, setting up desks and ordering new things around here. This has slowed us down a bit, and we apologize for the delay. We are off and running now and that is a good thing. Our players have reported that Session 3 went very well. The start time for the next round of three sessions will be 9 am.

Please continue to hop on our forums for reminders and updates, as the next sessions are starting up quick and they would like to roll through the scenarios in order, and get into them rather than slow them down. Once again thank you for joining us and may you all enjoy a great gaming week. Come by and see us next session
