

"FIFA has a long history of challenging ourselves to get better," said Executive Producer Matt Prior. "The challenge to create a beautiful and authentic football game is bigger than ever. With 'HyperMotion,' we've got the technology to realize this goal, and bring to life real-life-like player and ball physics for the first time." "We are all very excited to see the game and to play with it on the day," said Ridley Scott. "I've only been a FIFA fan for 30 years and I'm extremely proud to be a part of it. I'm delighted to see what we are able to achieve from the game." "We have big shoes to fill," said David Rutter, Executive Producer at EA SPORTS™ FIFA. "At FIFA, we are always looking to innovate, and we know that the FIFA community wants the best football, the best gameplay, and the best atmosphere. Our goal has always been to create the best football game on the planet, and this is a huge step toward achieving that goal." The FIFA family is counting down until the game comes out on September 27, but from today we will give you a chance to demo this unique game to see what's in store on your favorite game mode. To get a taste of the action, we are welcoming the press to our Austin offices at The Convention Center's Hilton Americas Hotel from August 24 to 28 for an extensive hands-on demo with the game. FIFA is best known for the World Cup, which is the top tournament in the sport. We believe the FIFA franchise has a great global fan base of supporters and regular players, and this is reflected in player growth and engagement. Here are the numbers from 2016, the latest year of EA SPORTS FIFA 17 data: Q3 2016: 15.9 million total FIFA players Q3 2015: 15.7 million total FIFA players Q3 2014: 14.9 million total FIFA players Q3 2013: 13.9 million total FIFA players Q3 2012: 12.6 million total FIFA players Q3 2011: 10.9 million total FIFA players Q3 2010: 7.1 million total FIFA players Q3 2009: 2.8 million total FIFA players FIFA also releases more than 40 official FIFA branded video games per year, including popular console franchises like FIFA, FIFA Pro Evolution Soccer and FIFA Street, and PC games such as FIFA Online 3. EA SPORTS FIFA 17 FIFA 17 is a major new addition to the FIFA franchise, bringing fresh gameplay innovations, deeper and more immersive online features, new ways to play and maintain your roster and much more. Highlights include: As always, we challenged ourselves to bring the authentic feeling of football to players around the world. Our game engine in FIFA 17 was completely re-architected to more accurately model the control, speed and skills of the world's greatest footballers. We also developed a proprietary AI engine that brings a completely new set of skills to the game. These are the key performance differences between FIFA and PES: Physically, FIFA 17 is the lightest FIFA game ever. Fitting with the real skill movement of players, the new game engine also makes the ball feel heavier and more physical. Players accelerate and decelerate more quickly and feel more responsive. New in FIFA 17: Six new kits for each team, with custom faces and distinctive colors. New Authentic Player Movements - In FIFA 17, every player feels real. The new physics engine lets players accelerate and decelerate quickly and react realistically. FIFA 17 also introduces new set of skills to control players: dribble, weave, feint, pass, shoot and run. New Unprecedented Artificial Intelligence. FIFA 16 used an AI engine known as "PES-Sight", which accurately
