What's new in STAR-BOX - 'Galaxy Pet Store':

ius, New Cassells Hallev. Welford, 6th Baronet, son of the previous. Died without male issue, and left his estate in the younger line to Lord Clifford, the last of whom, on his own marriage, resigned the title in favour of the tenant of Moreton Heath. Miss Bland, daughter of the above. On the 8th of February, 1754, died young, leaving an only son, Sir Edward Lionel Bland, 9th Baronet, who succeeded to the estates of the house. The baronet was served heir at the twelfth writ of error, which was entered in the Inner House on the 7th of February, 1755. At the same time he was safely himself declared as successor to the title to property valued by £54,957 14s. 3d. He was married about forty years after to Elizabeth Matthew Ogle, with whom he had a family of five sons and three daughters. In the 21st year of the reign of George II., Sir Edward Lionel Bland, Baronet, died without direct issue, and the whole of his vast estates, and among them New Cassells Hall, fell to the representatives of his maternal grandmother, Katherine, daughter of Sir Matthew Fonblanque of Richmond House, London, only sister of the 13th Baronet of that county, Thomas Fonblanque, and sister also, by the last-mentioned, of Sir Laurence Mansfield, Bart., and of Lady Elizabeth, wife of John Russell, Duke of Bedford. The eldest son of Sir Edward Bland, Baronet, James, and heir elect of New Cassells Hall, was accordingly summoned to Parliament, as Baronet of Blandeshale, which title had previously been claimed and claimed by that family for three generations. On the death of Sir Edward Lionel, 16th Baronet, at his residence, New Cassells Hall, he was appointed one of the honorary barons of the George, Prince of Wales's Dynastic Merit, and was called to the House of Peers as Baronet of New Cassells Hall. This is the only rank and title since 10th of George III. at which a Baronet has been elected a Peer of England, and I believe is unique even
