The shape and size I was looking for; plus it is a cactus and I really like the design. But the edges are a little rough and I would like to have the edges smoothed over like the edges on a cake. It is clear that you can't smooth it over very well, so I just sanded it off with a 300 grit sandpaper and it smoothed it out quite a bit. Overall it's a good cake topper. The present invention relates to a yarn brake device used in spinning machines for open end spinning, particularly the spinning machines as disclosed in Japanese Patent Application Laid-Open Publications Nos. 179588/1988, 57891/1988, 205739/1988 and 57348/1988. In conventional spinning machines, when threads of spinning are to be stopped, the yarn brake device is generally provided in a narrow feeder portion where warp threads wound around a bobbin are made to enter to a section after the spinning machine. FIG. 1 shows a conventional yarn brake device. The yarn brake device 50 comprises an arm 51 moved in directions indicated by arrows by a cam mechanism 52 in response to the movement of a yarn guide 53 as a brake control member. Upon the movement of the arm 51 and the wedge 54, a yarn 16 wound around a bobbin or a supply bobbin (not shown) is allowed to enter a nip formed between the arm 51 and the fixed member 55, thereby braking yarn thread. The yarn 16, upon being brake by the brake mechanism, is stopped in a yarn stretched and lowered state until it enters a cutter 91. However, the conventional yarn brake device has problems that yarns 16 are cut by the cutter 91 which is provided at a forward end of the arm 51 as shown in FIG. 1, causing the yarns 16 to be broken. Further, the yarns 16 are drawn out from the machine, thereby resulting in broken yarns 16 being mixed in the yarn which is to be
